

Prepping Predictions For 2020

with Jeff Anderson for www.ModernCombatAndSurvival.com

More "Practical Prepping"

Driven by an increase in natural disasters.

- Keep your eyes and ears open.
- Look for opportunities to add to your "mutual aid group."

Thinning The Herd In The Industry

Too many people in the survival industry are doing "forced continuity" programs, which drives people away (and kills businesses).

- ALWAYS read the fine print.
- Everybody in the industry is trying to sell you something, and there's nothing wrong with that, but be careful what deals you're signing on with.

Higher-Quality Products

In a short-term crisis, throw-away gadgets and gizmos are fine, but...

- Think longer term and invest in QUALITY for your CORE survival systems.
- Food: You want a 25-year shelf-life mobile supply, not something bulky you can't take with you.
- Water: Think water generation, not storage/bottles.
- Shelter: Have a backup!
- Security: Assess your arsenal... and TRAIN.
- Bugout Bags: Forget the freebies!

All 5 "Collapse Sources" INCREASING

There are 5 predictors/indicators/sources of a collapse, and each one is going to get worse as we head into the new year.

- Natural Disasters: Climate change will likely produce more erratic weather patterns. Analyze your own risk history for your area and add a 50% increase to the most severe event.

- Pandemic: The CDC has added "Disease X" to their slate of things to worry about. They know something's coming; they just don't know WHAT it is yet.
- Nuclear: Everybody's forgotten about North Korea, but they've vowed to go on the offensive. Instability worldwide offers them opportunity.
- Grid-Down Blackout: EMP isn't the threat we once thought it was. The threat now is hacking, a cyber-attack that many nations can already effect. It's not a matter of if, but when, and when it happens, it's going to be traumatic for us.
- Economic Collapse: Our budget deficit when Trump took office was $587 billion per year. It's now 1.2 trillion, and the national debt is a staggering $23 trillion. We got a bigger credit card... that will someday have to be paid. When the bill finally comes due, it will cripple us.

A New Round Of "Trump Riots"

Stay aware of the news for topics that get national attention, and search for groups. Get on their email lists, know what social media sites they're using, and get a police scanner and a map of your area. Know when to get out, and be aware of the threats around you.

- The election coming up is going to ROCK this nation worse than before.
- You need to be prepared for that civil unrest.
